

DJURWA

A Yalagan BINGO joint venture

About us

We are Djurwa (pronounced Jurwa). In Dharawal language our name means “to grow”.

We chose the word Djurwa, because it is tied to cultural burning. When our people stayed in an area for a period of time, we would conduct a cultural burn before moving on, so the country rejuvenated to its natural health, leaving no trace or impact that we has been there.

Our business strategy is people-focused, providing opportunities to rejuvenate our Country and our Communities.

We are a recycling and waste management company with people, community and the environment at our heart.

Our aim is to provide meaningful employment opportunities to vulnerable community members, while delivering high-quality recycling and waste management services to our customers.

We provide end-to-end waste management and recycling services to Building & Demolition and Commercial & Industrial customers in New South Wales, helping them to realise both their recycling and social procurement goals.

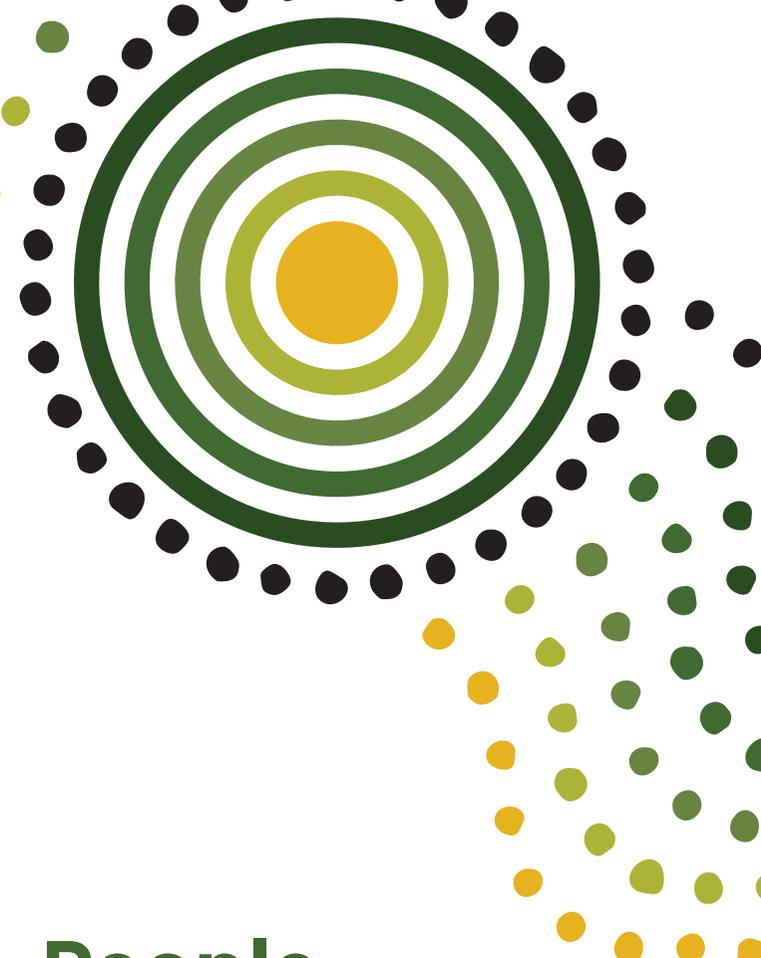

Djurwa is proud to have attained the status of FACCI Assured Affiliate with NSW Indigenous Chamber of Commerce (NSWICC).

Yalagan Group

Founded in 2017 by proud Yuin Man Nathan Martin, Yalagan is an Aboriginal owned-and-operated, multi-disciplinary company that is supporting some of Australia's leading resource, infrastructure and construction companies, offering specialised personnel solutions.

Nathan's vision for the business was to create opportunity for those who might not find it elsewhere – those, who like himself, were coming out of prison or who had experienced periods of long-term unemployment.

Through our joint venture partner Yalagan, we provide meaningful employment opportunities, empowerment, care and support to individuals within communities and also focused supporting people who have had interactions within the justice system. Importantly Yalagan is both a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) and Group Training Organisation (GTO), that takes pride in providing employment pathways and careers.

Through Yalagan's Gamarada mentoring program, we are also able to provide post-placement training, support and mentorship to our Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees.

Through our joint venture partner BINGO Industries, we have access to the advanced recycling facilities and the largest fleet of collections vehicles in New South Wales and Victoria.

BINGO is an industry leader in recycling and end-to-end waste management services for building and demolition and commercial and industrial waste.

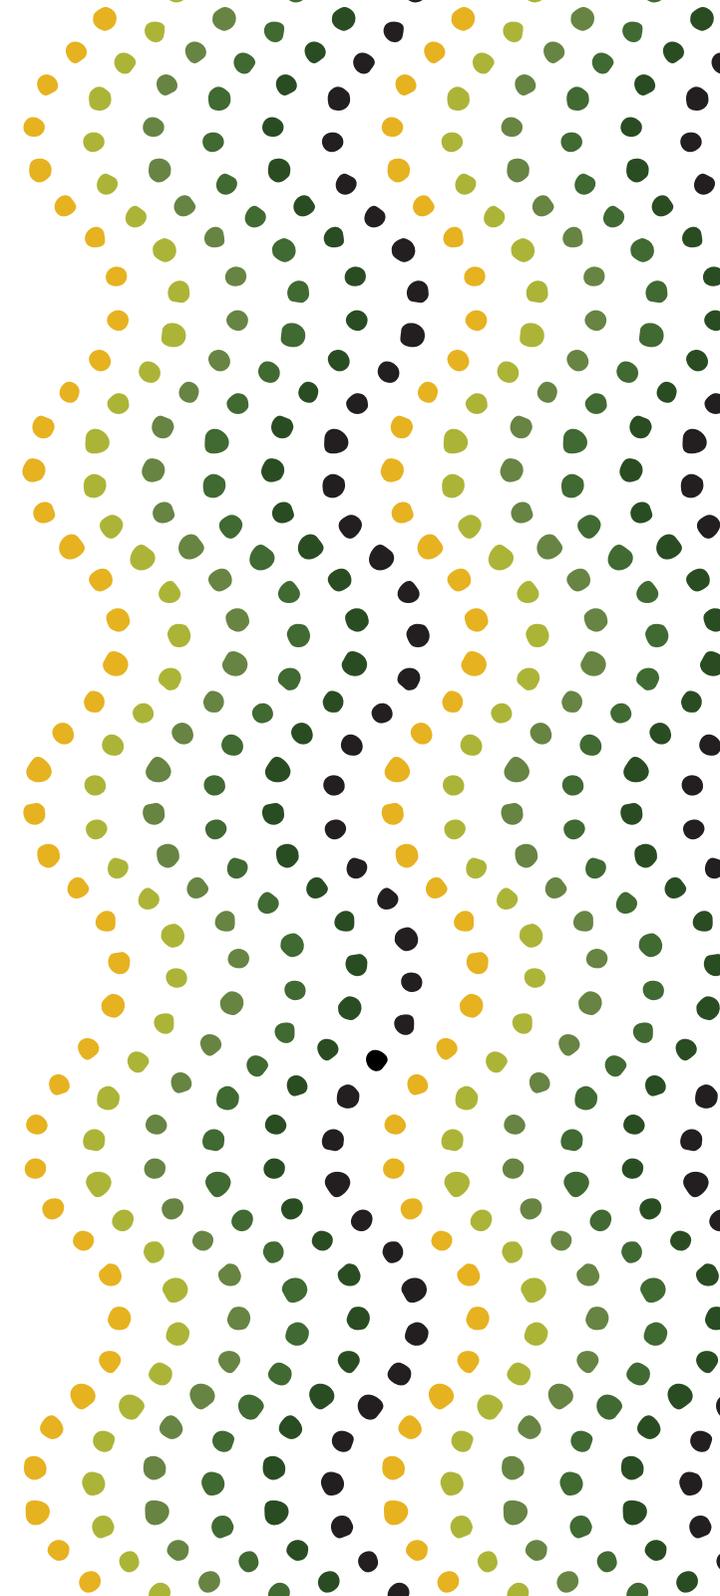

Their priority is supporting governments, communities and businesses in achieving sustainable outcomes for waste through providing innovative recycling solutions.

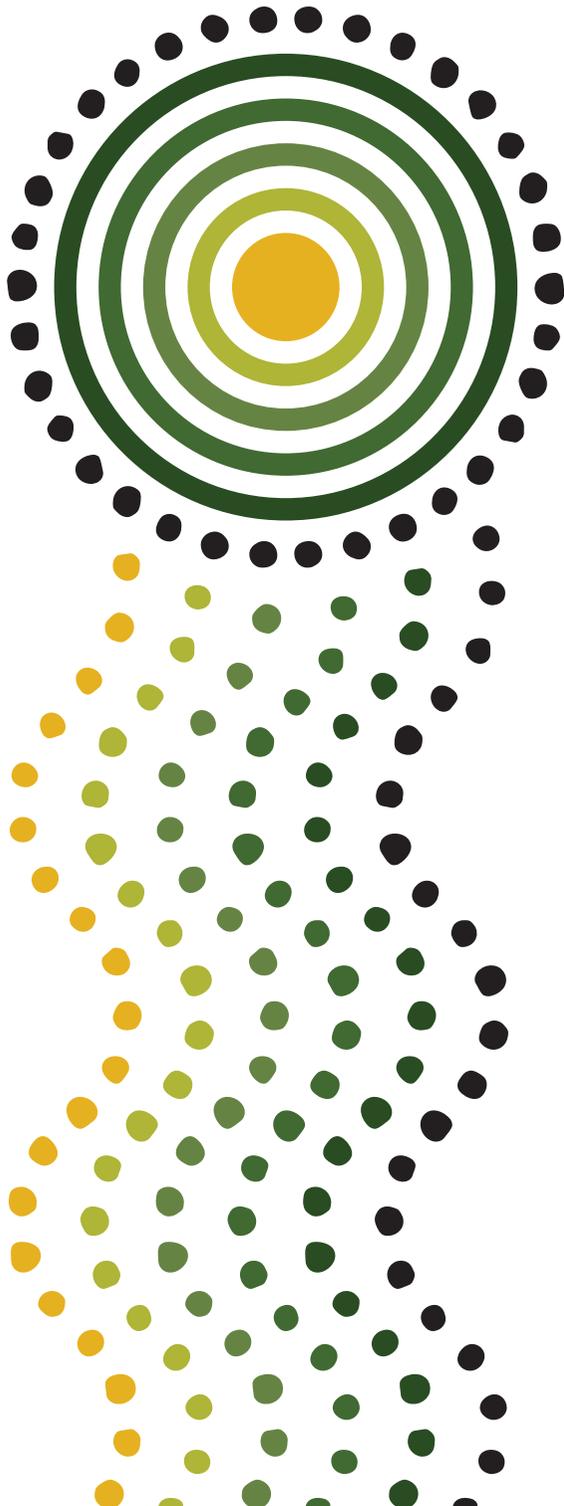

The BINGO team are experts in sustainable resource recovery, recycling and disposal, operating one of the largest networks of recycling facilities in New South Wales and Victoria. BINGO's network of trucks, bins, advanced recycling centres and disposal assets are helping customers and communities in reducing the cost of waste disposal and its impact on the environment.

BINGO is proud to partner with Yalagan to generate meaningful employment and training opportunities and deliver best practice recycling and waste management services to help customers realise their social procurement and recycling goals.

What we do

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander engagement

Our purpose is to deliver true economic engagement and empowerment for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples through employment, training and development opportunities.

We mentor and support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander candidates, including ex-offenders, working within our joint venture and throughout the BINGO and Yalagan networks.

Our approach is focused on reducing recidivism and underemployment for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders and other underrepresented groups. We aim to foster an ecosystem where vulnerable community members can grow and evolve within a supportive and culturally safe work place.

We are passionate about building and supporting relationships with Traditional Owners, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and our customers to develop opportunities including supportive subcontracting and training and development opportunities.

Construction and demolition waste

When you're managing a construction site, you'll need a waste management service you can trust. One that will work with you to choose a waste solution that delivers and is cost-effective. From skip bins and site bins, to large hook bins and craneable bins, you'll be sure to find the right bin for your project. With access to the largest fleet of building and demolition waste collection vehicles in NSW and Victoria, carrying out thousands of services a day, you can depend on BINGO to get the job done.

Commercial and Industrial

If you're running a business, you need commercial waste services from a company you can rely on to get the job done. From a wide range of bins and equipment to the safe removal of hazardous liquids and contaminated soils, we can help tailor a commercial waste management solution for your business. We'll visit your site and take the time to understand your needs. With same day delivery, 6 days a week, we're always there when you need us.

Customer Service

From the driver who drops off your bin to the operator who answers your call, you'll get friendly, reliable, genuine service from our team every time. Need a bin now? We offer same day delivery (for orders before 10am), 6 days a week, in Sydney and Melbourne metro areas.

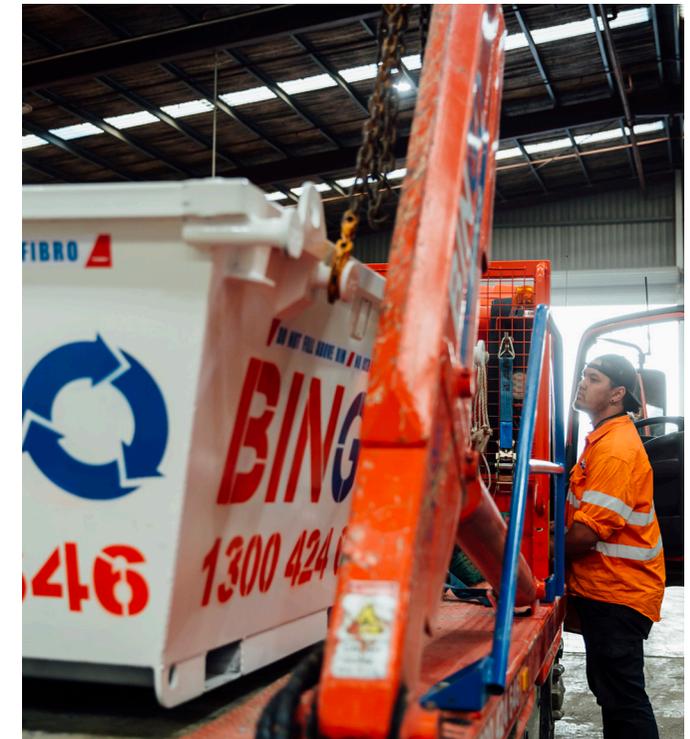

Through our joint venture partner BINGO, we can offer you access to their user-friendly customer app MyBINGO, giving you access to your waste services anytime on any device.

Skip bins

We have a full range of bin sizes from large skips for light and heavy building and commercial materials to small site bins. Our friendly customer service team are the experts in recycling and waste management and can help you design the waste service that is right for your project or site.

Safety first

We believe everyone has a part to play in the chain of responsibility when it comes to safely collecting, recycling and disposing of waste. The safety of our people, your people and the communities in which we work is our number one priority. We maintain our fleet of collections vehicles to the highest standards, carry out regular safety audits. Our drivers are monitored for fatigue and are highly-skilled at completing bin changes safely, even in the most difficult locations.

Recycling

We are passionate about creating a circular economy in Australia, where valuable resources are recovered and recycled, rather than going into landfill. Through our joint venture partner BINGO, we have access to the largest network of state-of-the-art recycling assets in NSW and can deliver industry leading recycling rates up to 83%. Talk to our sales representatives today about how we can help you reach your recycling targets. We also offer our customers a range of competitively-priced, high-quality recycled building and landscaping supplies.

Social Procurement

We love to work with companies who want to make a difference for vulnerable Australian's through their procurement spend.

We specialise in helping government-contracted business meet their Indigenous procurement spend obligations under state and federal procurement policies. When you spend with us, you know your business is going towards helping someone rebuild their life.

Djurwa is proud to have attained the status of FACCI Assured Affiliate with NSW Indigenous Chamber of Commerce (NSWICC).
